M&M'S

An old man and a young man work together in an office. The old man always has a jar of peanuts on his desk and the young man really loves peanuts.

One day, while the old man is away from his desk, the young man yields to temptation and scarfs down over half the contents of the jar. When the old man returns, the young man feels guilty and confesses to his crime.

Don't worry son, I never eat the peanuts anyway," the old man replies. "Since I lost all my teeth, all I can do is gum the chocolate off the M&M's". ewwwwww!

LOOKING FOR A GREAT APRIL FOOLS PRANK THIS MIGHT JUST BE IT!!!

So many of us have worked or schooled from home for a substantial time over the past few years, and our computers and devices have become everything. But online entrepreneur Mark Coster still thinks it's fun to innocently mess with these screens. "When a person's computer is on, ask them to bring you something from another room (the further away, the better) and press the keyboard shortcut CTRL + ALT + Down Arrow if they use Windows," he suggests. "If they are on a Mac, go to System Preferences. Hold Command and Option while clicking on Display, and then hit the '180' option. This will flip their computer screen upside down. This harmless prank has an easy fix, but you'll still have a blast watching them twist their head trying to find out how to fix it on their computer."
